This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

REPORT.

STATE ASSESSORS' OFFICE,
AUGUSTA, MAINE, DECEMBER 1, 1910.

To His Excellency, Bert M. Fernald, Governor, and the Honorable Executive Council:

GENTLEMEN:—We submit herewith the Twentieth Annual Report of the Board of State Assessors, which contains tabulations of all statistics for the year as of April first, 1910, received from the several municipal boards of assessors in the state, and also schedules of all corporations upon which taxes have been assessed during the present year.

There is also included, as required by the statute, the state valuation of the real and personal estate of all the cities, towns and plantations and of the real estate of all the unincorporated townships within the state as fixed by this Board as the basis upon which state and county taxes are to be computed for the years 1911 and 1912.

The total valuation of the cities, towns and plantations as certified to this Board by the municipal assessors for the present year is $394,051,408. Compared with the amount returned in 1909, the total increase is $20,026,086. The gain in real estate amounts to $16,740,011 and in personal estate $3,286,075.

This represents the greatest annual gain in valuation recorded in the history of the state. It is more than the normal increase in the value of the real and personal property of the state. The Act of 1909, directing the State Assessors to have and exercise supervision over local assessments, has resulted in a complete revaluation of the property in many municipalities with most gratifying increases in every case. The assessments have been brought to a basis approximating just value. Not every board of assessors has responded to the full purpose and intent of the law, that all property shall be assessed at its just value. Reforms come slowly, but with con stant and persistent labor of the State Assessors the active co-operation of local boards will be enlisted and thus a substantially uniform basis of local assessments we are confident will be secured.

We give the total local valuation by counties for 1909 and 1910, showing the comparative gain in each county, the valuation of the unorganized townships not included.

Counties.	1909.	1910.	Increase.
Androscoggin	$31,849,532	$33,869,611	$2,020,079
Aroostook	20,758,963	24,129,431	3,370,468

	$374,025,322	$394,051,408	$20,026,086

The total valuation of the twenty cities in 1909 was $168,365,829 and for 1910 $177,229,627, an increase of $8,863,798. These cities represent, approximately, forty-five per cent of the valuation of the state, not including the unorganized townships. We append comparative valuations of the cities for 1909 and 1910 with a statement of the municipal debt of each at the close of the municipal year.

	$168,365,829	$177,229,627	$6,177,082

The total municipal indebtedness of the state amounts to $8,602,100, which is equal to $21.82 on each $1,000 valuation. There has been an increase of $404,214 during the year, mainly in the cities. There are two hundred seventy-four towns and plantations that have no public debt.

Real estate of railroads subject to local taxation is valued at $5,504,187 and of street railroads $1,248,475. These properties show an increase for the year of $615,818.

The real estate and machinery of cotton mills are returned as 935,700 spindles and a valuation of $11,589,408, a gain of 18,284 spindles and $1,187,483 in value.

Woolen mills are assessed at $3,178,300, a gain during the year of $332,815.

The real estate and machinery of pulp and paper mills are assessed at $9,705,780, a gain for the year of $930,180.

Saw mills are valued at $2,004,170. Other miils of various kinds not stated are assessed for $3,309,015. Electric light company property is returned at $3,194,352. There is also machinery in various branches of manufacturing assessed as personal property at $2,431,507.

Other corporate property representing smaller industries is assessed at $1,677,455. Materials in stock and finished products of mills are assessed at $3,825,297. Logs and lumber, including wood and bark, are valued at $4,704,587. It is apparent that much of this property, on account of its location on April first and the omission of the owners to report to town assessors, is not included in the assessment rolls.

The live stock of the state is assessed at $15,247,499. Money at interest is assessed for $11,905,708; stock in trade $21,700,722; national bank shares $6,428,077 and state trust and banking shares at $3,591,654.

Shipping is assessed for $1,376,385 and small boats $864,386. Carriages are returned at $1,117,559 and musical instruments $2,721,828. Automobiles are assessed for $1,393,990. This valuation represents machines, in most cases, that have been in service one year or more. But few automobiles are purchased or delivered before April first, the date of the annual assessment. In one municipality where forty-eight automobiles were assessed on April first, 1910, there were by midsummer one hundred and twenty-eight owned.

The total number of polls assessed in the state this year is 198,057 and there are exempted 15,029, a total of 214,086, an increase from 1909 of 2,328. The average amount assessed on each poll is $2.68.

The total amount of taxes assessed upon real and personal property in the several municipalities for state, county and local expenses is $8,579,278. The average rate of taxation is $21.77 on each $1,000. The average rate in 1908 was $20.83 and for 1909 $21.65.

The average rate per $1,000 for 1910 in the several counties is as follows: Androscoggin $18.88; Aroostook $24.96; Cumberland $20.76; Franklin $20.00; Hancock $25.59; Kennebec $22.50; Knox $21.71; Lincoln $21.85; Oxford $21.20; Penobscot $21.82; Piscataquis $24.79; Sagadahoc $19.97; Somerset $22.00; Waldo $20.75; Washington $26.04; York $21.54.

The total amount appropriated for schools is $1,208,811, a decrease from 1909 of $311,258; and for highways $1,556,315, $6,103 less than the amount appropriated in 1909. The increased contributions of the state for the common school fund and for good roads make it possible for municipalities to reduce appropriations for these purposes. Undoubtedly a greater amount has been actually expended during 1910 for both schools and roads than in 1909.

The corporation taxes assessed by this Board during the year show an increase of $94,087 over those assessed in 1909. The following comparative table shows the amount assessed for each of the two years upon the several classes of corporations:

CORPORATION TAXES.

Railroads	$593,148 95	$684,268 81
Street Railroads	21,437 67	35,497 53
Telephone Companies	48,532 05	54,988 32
Telegraph Companies	2,109 94	3,765 99
Express Companies	16,346 26	20,510 38
Palace Car Companies	1,620 16	1,612 39
General Franchise Taxes	316,665 00	278,610 00
Savings Banks	471,173 73	469,027 33
Trust & Banking Companies	94,507 41	100,506 12
Insurance Companies	115,286 82	125,905 97
Loan & Building Associations	414 49	636 72
	$1,681,242 48	$1,775,329 56

It will be observed that the amount assessed upon savings banks is slightly less than in 1909. While the resources of the mutual savings banks have increased more than $2,000,000 during the year, the taxes are less from the fact that more liberal investments have been made in new issues of municipal bonds and other public securities which were by the Act of 1909 made free from taxation. The amount of deposits in the savings department of the trust and banking companies amounts to, approximately, $21,000,000 and these banks have paid into the state treasury during the year $100,506.12 in taxes.

In this connection, attention is called to the fact that the report of the Comptroller of the Currency on November 16th, 1909, disclosed deposits in the savings departments of national banks in this state amounting to $14,719,635, and November 10th, 1910, these deposits amounted to $18,249,754, an increase of $3,530,119 during the year. This property is not assessed by the state nor in any municipality. The Federal Statutes permit the local taxation of the shares of national banks but not at a greater rate than similar capital in the hands of citizens. There can be no valid reason why these savings deposits should not contribute to the state revenue in fair proportion to the amount assessed upon savings banks and the interest bearing deposits of state trust and banking companies. The exemption of this property from taxation, it seems to us, is a manifest injustice which should not be permitted to continue.

STATE VALUATION.

Acting as a Board of Equalization, we report herewith the twelfth biennial valuation of the state as follows:

Real estate of cities, towns and plantations	$320,850,680
Personal estate of cities, towns and plantations ..	85,647,793
Real estate of unorganized townships	43,880,863
Growth on Public Lots	1,400,783
Total	$451,780,119

This valuation represents a total increase above the state valuation of 1908 amounting to $23,567,654, as follows:

On real estate of cities, towns and plantations ..	$17,868,265
On personal estate of cities, towns and plantations	3,028,037
On unorganized townships	2,601,473
On growth on Public Lots	89,879
	$23,567,654

The Board has held, during the year, sessions in the several counties as required by law. Nearly every municipality has been represented at these meetings by one at least, and in many cases by the three members of its board of assessors. The necessary information to enable the state board to form a correct judgment of the several local valuations has been freely and frankly given in most cases, and from all the information we have been able to gather we regard the state valuation as made up a fair and reasonable valuation of the taxable property in each municipality.

WILD LANDS.

The Legislature of 1905 appropriated the sum of $5,000 to be expended during the following two years by the State Assessors in securing better and more complete description of the unorganized townships and for having explorations made when other evidence of value was unsatisfactory. As a result the State Assessors had prepared, on a uniform scale, durable plans of all the wild land townships and, in addition, in 1905 and 1906 had 192,137 acres of forest territory explored. In 1907 there was appropriated for the same purpose $5,000 and during 1907 and 1908 247,343 acres were examined by competent explorers. In 1909 the appropriation was doubled and during 1909 and 1910 twenty-six townships, with a total area of 571,308 acres, have been carefully looked over and estimates made of the amount of growth standing. The total amount paid for the explorations of 1909 and 1910 is $7,968.48. This makes a total of 1,010,788 acres of wild land examined during the past six years.

The explorers have in every case made elaborate reports giving much information in detail. In most cases, the result of these explorations has been a considerable increase in the valuation of the townships looked over, but not in every case. In a few instances, no increase was possible. On the other hand, it was found necessary to make a lower valuation upon some townships than had heretofore been placed upon the land, on account of timber being cut and damage from forest fires. It must be apparent to any one that it is not an easy task to determine what is a just and reasonable value of this immense territory contained in the unorganized townships so that some provision for examination by competent explorers is a necessity to secure reliable evidence regarding any township when other information is incomplete or conflicting. We shall recommend that at least $5,000 be appropriated for this purpose to be expended so far as seems necessary during the next two years. A statement of the amount expended during 1910 is contained in this report.

TAXATION IN OTHER STATES.

We have included the report of the delegates who represented Maine at the third annual conference of the International Tax Association, which was held at Louisville, Kentucky, in 1909, and the fourth conference held in 1910 at Milwaukee, Wisconsin. This report contains much interesting information and gives some light on the various phases of the tax problem as viewed by the representatives of other states.

The most noteworthy tendency of tax legislation in recent years is toward a separation of state and local revenues and by enlarging the powers of permanent state taxing boards. Minnesota, Michigan, Wisconsin and West Virginia, by centralizing their tax systems, have thus increased their revenues and to some extent equalized the burdens of taxation, and at the legislative session of 1910 in Ohio a permanent tax commission was established. The Ohio law is elaborate in its provision and the commission, in addition to fixing the valuation of public utility corporations, is authorized to supervise local assessments. The avowed purpose is to secure a full and fair value of all property as a basis of assessment. A limit in the rate of taxation is fixed to prevent excessive expenditure by local authority. The quite general movement in the several states for a supervisory power of state taxing boards seems to have the general endorsement of practical administrators and also of theorists. The new faith, however, does not appeal to New England sentiment so strongly as in other sections of the country, although Maine by an act of the Legislature of 1909 empowers and directs the State Assessors to have and exercise supervision over local tax assessments to the end that all property shall be assessed at its just value, and the result thus far has proved the wisdom of this legislation.

Massachusetts permits its state tax commissioner to recommend a revision of the valuation of undervalued property, but his authority appears to end here. The Maryland Legislature, at the last session, made provision for a general revaluation of the whole property in the state. It is understood that the act met considerable opposition and was only passed because of the pressing need of more revenue. New Jersey, at the legislative session of 1909, authorized the appointment of a special expert commission to make a complete revaluation of the railroad property in the state and to report by September first, 1909. At the expiration of this time, the work was only begun and at the session of 1910 $100,000 additional was appropriated to complete the work. We are not aware that the commission has yet made any report.

The states of Illinois, Maryland, Pennsylvania and Rhode Island, in 1909, provided special tax commissions for the purpose of investigations of their several taxation systems, and the present year Virginia has authorized a similar commission composed of the Governor, President of the Senate, Speaker of the Assembly, Chairman of the Finance Committee, and Chairman of the State Finance Commission, and they are to appoint an expert to assist them. The objective point in Virginia seems to be to secure separate sources of revenue for state and local expenditures, and the old Commonwealth with its long list of gross receipts taxes has made considerable progress along this line.

New York leads in the number of tax laws passed. The most important of them being the amended inheritance tax act, which was passed at the special session in July after Governor Hughes had vetoed the measure passed at the regular session. The tax applies to most property of non-residents, including shares in New York corporations, even though the evidences of ownership are outside the state. There is no reciprocal clause, such as Connecticut, Maine, Vermont and a few other states have adopted in one form or another, for the prevention of double taxation of the same property by different jurisdictions.

New York exempts automobiles from taxation as personal property by a revised automobile law, but this law fixes a schedule of state license fees, graded according to horse power.

Oklahoma has, by a recent act, provided a state tax upon railroads based upon the value of the property but varies the rate in accordance with the percentage of operating expenses to gross receipts. Terminal property outside of the located right of way and all buildings are subject to local assessment same as in Maine. Another Oklahoma act imposes a license tax on practically all private business corporations.

In California, on October fifth, 1910, an amendment to the state constitution was adopted for the purpose of making a complete separation of the sources of state and local revenues. The amendment provides that taxes levied upon railroads, street railroads and upon all other public service corporations and upon all franchises of every kind and nature shall be entirely and exclusively for state purposes. The rates of taxation are fixed by the amendment which are to remain in force until changed by the legislature, two-thirds of all the members elected to each of the two houses voting in favor thereof. The gross earnings of these corporations are the basis for computing the taxes. The rates of taxation as fixed by the amendment are as follows: On all railroad companies, including street railways, four per cent of the gross receipts; on all sleeping car, dining car, palace car companies, oil, stock, fruit, refrigerator and other car loaning companies, three per cent; on express companies, two per cent; on all telegraph and telephone companies, three and one-half per cent; on all companies engaged in the transmission of gas or electricity, four per cent; on insurance companies, the rate is one and one-half per cent upon the amount of gross premiums received from business within the state, less return premiums and reinsurance in other companies. There is also to be deducted the amount of taxes paid upon real estate in any county or municipality. The amendment also contains a retalitory provision applicable to companies of other states where higher rates of taxation are imposed. The amendment provides that all franchises not expressly provided for shall be assessed at their actual cash value at the rate of one per cent.

All shares of the capital stock of national banks and state banks are to be assessed by the State Board of Equalization to the owners at the rate of one per cent. The values of the shares are to be determined by the amount of capital paid in and also including the accumulated surplus and undivided profits, subject only to a deduction of the value of any real estate assessed locally to the bank. Unincorporated banks and private bankers are assessed at the rate of one per cent upon their invested capital, including profits less the value of any real estate assessed locally.

The California amendment to the state constitution is noteworthy as it represents a complete change in the method of taxing public service corporations. Heretofore railroads and other public service corporations have been subject to ad valorem taxation same as other property. The State Board of Equalization in its report for 1910 declares that "The commonwealth now enters upon an experiment of great importance, and which it is hoped will result in giving it a modern, progressive revenue system, fully abreast with that of the most advanced of the Eastern states."

RAILROAD APPRAISAL.

At the legislative session of 1909, a joint order was passed as follows: "That the State Assessors of Maine be instructed to ascertain the actual value of all the railroad property in the State of Maine of all kinds, including franchises, real estate, bonds and stock and report to the next Legislature for the purpose of taxation."

No provision was made by the order for procuring expert advice or assistance of any kind. We have been able, however, to make some investigation and secure much valuable information regarding the value of the several railroad systems doing business in the state, and will be able to make report during the next legislative session.

Respectfully submitted,

GEORGE POTTLE,
W. J. THOMPSON,
E. M. JOHNSTON,

REPORT OF THE DELEGATES TO THE THIRD AND FOURTH ANNUAL CONFERENCES OF THE INTERNATIONAL TAX ASSOCIATION.

To the Honorable Governor and Council:

By virtue of Chapter 332 of the Resolves of 1909, the following delegates were appointed, in 1909, to represent the State of Maine at the conferences of the International Tax Association in 1909 and 1910: Edward W. Wheeler of Brunswick, William R. Pattangall of Waterville, and Clement F. Robinson of Portland. Mr. Pattangall found it impossible to attend the conferences, and resigned in 1910, George Pottle of Lewiston being appointed in his place.

The delegates submit the following report:

The International Tax Association was formed as a result of a tax conference held in Columbus, Ohio, in 1907. It is a permanent organization of administrative tax officials, teachers of finance, and other persons interested in the subject of taxation. Since its formation, annual conferences have taken place under its auspices, to which each state, territory, and Canadian province has been invited to send three delegates, appointed by Governor or Premier, and each higher institution of learning one delegate. The voting power at the conferences is confined to these delegates, although the conferences are largely attended by members of the association, and other persons interested in the subjects under deliberation, who have not been accredited as delegates.

LOUISVILLE CONFERENCE.

The conference at Louisville, Kentucky, September 21 to 24, 1909, was the third which the association has arranged. The permanent chairman was Hon. A. E. Willson, Governor of Kentucky. Forty states, three provinces, and twenty-seven universities and colleges were represented by duly appointed delegates, and the Governors of West Virginia and Mississippi attended in person.

This conference proved particularly interesting to the delegates from Maine because of the character of the informal discussion from the floor. At the conferences at Columbus in 1907 and at Toronto in 1908 it seemed to those who attended as delegates from Maine that a disproportionate amount of time was occupied by the reading of prepared papers of somewhat academic nature. At the Columbus conference there were forty-eight papers presented, and at Toronto, thirty-two. At Louisville, however, there were but twenty papers, and ample time was afforded for the discussion of each of the subjects presented.

The Louisville conference was notable particularly for the discussion of the problem of the Federal income and corporation taxes. At the first two conferences, resolutions had been unanimously adopted, condemning the project of a Federal Inheritance Tax, on the ground that it would interfere with sources of revenue needed by the individual states. These resolutions, later adopted by the legislatures of eight states, had an undoubted effect in inducing the United States Senate to discard the Inheritance Tax which was a feature of the Tariff Bill as originally passed by the House of Representatives. In the preliminary announcement of the Louisville conference, the President of the association, Hon. Allen R. Foote of Columbus, Ohio, stated that he would urge resolutions condemning the Federal corporation tax, because it too interferes with state revenues; but that he would suggest resolutions favoring the income tax amendment to the Federal Constitution.

Following out this announcement, Mr. Foote presented a paper entitled "The Power of Taxation should be Regulated," in which he criticized the Federal corporation tax because in its aspect of a revenue measure it infringes on sources of state revenue, while regarded as a means of regulation, it is opposed to a principle, which he defined as fundamental, that "a tax should be laid for revenue only." Instead of an income tax amendment, however, Mr. Foote proposed a convention of the states for a discussion of the readjustment of the powers delegated to the Federal government.

Mr. Foote's views were partly affirmed by two other carefully prepared papers. The first of these was by Professor Edwin R. A. Seligman of New York,—one of the leading tax theorists of the country. He argued that both corporation and inheritance taxes are desirable as measure of regulation and supervision, and are most effective for those purposes when levied by Federal authority; but he declared that the proceeds of such taxes are needed by the state treasuries more than by the Federal government. He further alleged that as a fiscal measure, the existing corporation tax is open to almost every conceivable objection. His suggestion was, that the nation should levy these taxes, and turn the proceeds over to the states. He made no attempt to defend the constitutionality of the suggestion, or to point out the method of apportioning the proceeds between the states. He further urged that the Federal government should be vested with the power of taxing incomes, in order that the proceeds may be available for reducing the burden of the indirect taxes which are now the sole source of Federal revenue.

The second paper along similar lines was by Lawson Purdy, Esq., President of the Department of Taxes and Assessments in the City of New York, who is one of the most scholarly of the tax administrative officials of the country. Mr. Purdy's paper analyzed the present corporation tax, and pointed out the flaws in its plan and its details. He stated in conclusion that:

"From whatever point of view the Federal corporation tax is studied, it is unworkable and unjust; it encroaches upon the powers of the States; it is not productive of revenue; it is needlessly inquisitorial; the publicity required is rash and dangerous in the extreme. Its name is a subterfuge, it is an income tax and not an excise tax. It has the vices of income taxes without the merits of an income tax law scientifically framed."

The discussion of the foregoing papers occupied nearly an entire session of the conference, and made evident that although many of the delegates approved the views presented by the papers, a large number were decidedly in favor of the plan of the present Federal corporation tax, because of its merits as a regulative, if not as a revenue-yielding device. Professor Seligman's suggestion of a Federal tax for the benefit of state revenues, and Mr. Foote's proposal for a convention of the states were not noticed in the discussion. There seemed to be a substantial agreement on the desirability of a Federal income tax, but so sharp was the difference of opinion upon the corporation tax, that it was feared by some of the delegates that no common ground of agreement was to be reached, and the usefulness of the Conference might be impaired. The resolutions which were eventually adopted by a unanimous vote solved the difficulty by avoiding it. The members of the conference were justified in this course by the brief time which could be devoted to a discussion of the matter, the political questions involved, and the absence of any strictly Federal representation in the conference. These resolutions are as follows:

"Whereas, An effort has been made outside this conference to attach a partisan political significance to the discussions of the conference and its committees on the Federal income and corporation tax questions,

"Resolved, That we place on record the fact that no partisan political considerations have at any time entered into the deliberations of the conference or its committees, and that reports to that effect are untrue.

"Whereas, the adjustment of national to state and local taxation is a matter of vital concern to the states, as well as to the nation, since the revenue of both are affected by such adjustment, and

"Whereas, this subject requires serious and thorough consideration from the point of view of the state, as well as that of the nation, and

"Whereas, the organization of the proposed association of governors will afford opportunity to secure such consideration,

"Resolved, that this conference requests its permanent chairman, the Governor of Kentucky, to submit the subject for the consideration of the Governors at the first meeting of their association."

Although it was only upon the question of Federal taxation that any great difference of opinion was developed, several of the other subjects before the conference were of interest to the delegates from Maine. In particular should be mentioned the paper by Hon. Thomas A. Parish, of the State Tax Commission of Washington, upon the subject of assessors and assessments in that state. Mr. Parish was formelry assessor of the richest county in the state. Immediately after he entered upon that office in January, 1907, he made a careful examination of the county assessment books, and found that there was an immense undervaluation of timber property. On his initiative, and at an expense of $70,000, a cruise of the timber lands of the county was carried out during the year. Every timbered section was carefully examined, and detailed reports were made upon each separate ten-acre tract, showing not only the kind, nature, quantity and quality of all timber, and its accessibility for logging purposes, but the character and adaptability of the soil and the general topography of the county. These reports were transcribed in india ink, photographed upon linen, bound in separate volumes by townships, and now form part of the permanent records of the assessors' office, from which, by due allowance for logging operations, correct assessments may be made for many years in the future. The cruise resulted in an increased valuation of the timber lands of the county of over $12,000,000, and in an additional revenue to the county, for the year 1907 alone, largely in excess of the expenditure for the entire cruise. Since the successful completion of this undertaking, nearly all the other timber counties of the state have undertaken similar surveys, at an average expense of $50,000 each, with like beneficial results Surveys of the cultivated land are now in contemplation. The unit of local government in Washington is the county, and there is a large state tax for school purposes, hence the rate of taxation now borne by the forest lands is by no means low. Mr. Parish exhibited samples of the plans prepared to embody the results of the cruise, and answered a series of questions, which showed the unusual interest which the delegates felt in his remarkable statements.

Another significant article was by L. G. Powers of the Census Bureau, upon the subject of uniform listing of real estate. Mr. Powers urged the adoption of a systematic classification of real estate in the assessment books, so that farm lots, residence lots, business property, and similar items shall be separately indicated. He cited examples of the present inconsistencies of real estate valuation. The delegates at the conference followed the suggestion of this paper, and adopted the following resolution:

"Whereas, the Bureau of the Census desires to prepare and publish exhibits of real property valuations, so arranged as to show for each civil division the value of various classes of real property, showing the value of land separately, and

"Whereas, such classification will tend to secure a more equitable assessment of real property:

"Resolved, that the conference recommends to the International Tax Association that a committee be appointed upon uniform classification of real property, which shall prepare and submit to future conferences and to the legislatures of the states and provinces, a classification of real property, such as is contemplated by these resolutions, and to submit to future conferences such further recommendations as the committee may deem advisable to secure the early adoption by our several states and provinces of such uniform classification of real property as will aid the Bureau of the Census, and will assist in freeing the administration of the general property tax from the inequality partly due to the absence of any uniform or other classification of real property values."

The committee contemplated by this resolution was duly appointed, and reported at the Milwaukee conference.

Professor C. J. Bullock of Harvard University, whose advocacy of the so-called "three-mill tax" upon certain forms of money at interest has within a few years brought him into prominence as a tax reformer, presented a valuable paper in which he urged the classification of taxable property for taxation at rates differing with the nature of the property. He admitted that in many states constitutional amendments would be required before his views could be adopted, but he declared that a tax of three mills on investments, six mills on tangible personal property, and at the present rates on real estate would result in much more equitable taxation than our present system.

Hon. T. C. Townsend, State Tax Commissioner of West Virginia, in describing the effect of recent changes in the tax laws of his state, stated that the assessment of personal property increased from eighty million dollars in 1904 to two hundred twenty-five million in 1909, the assessment of real estate from one hundred sixty-eight million to five hundred fifty million, of public service companies from thirty to two hundred sixty-three million, while at the same time the average rates of taxation for all purposes had dropped from twenty-one and one-half mills to eight and four-tenths mills.

Other papers read at the conference were the following: Obstructions in State Constitutions to Improvements in Tax Laws, by Hon William A. Robinson of the Kentucky Tax Revision Commission; Public Relations and Taxation of Public Utilities, by W. H. Gardiner, Esq., of New York; Taxation and the Public Welfare, by James H. Dillard, Esq., president of the Jeanes Foundation, New Orleans, La.; Taxation in the Southern States, by Charles M. Candler, Esq., of Atlanta, Georgia; License Tax System in Louisiana, by Hon. W. O. Hart of the Louisiana Tax Commission of 1908; Taxation of Insurance Companies, by James W. Noel, Esq., of Indiana, James A. DeBoer, President of the National Life Insurance Co. of Montpelier, Vt., and Frederick L. Hoffman, Statistician of the Prudential Life Insurance Co. of New Jersey; Taxation of Mercantile and Manufacturing Corporations, by William G. Bruce, Secretary of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association of Milwaukee, Wis., and Hon. W. H. Corbin, Tax Commissioner of Connecticut; Taxation of Telephone Companies in New York, by Hugh Taylor, Esq., of the Federal Telephone and Telegraph Co.; Uniformity in Municipal Accounts, by Duncan MacInnis of the Department of Finance, New York City; and Forest Taxation and the Direct State Tax in Maine, by Clement F. Robinson, of Portland, Maine.

In addition to the resolutions already quoted, and the usual votes of thanks, the conference unanimously adopted the following:

"Resolved, that this conference commends the recent compilation by the United States Bureau of Corporation of State Laws relating to corporation taxation, and urges the early publication of similar compilations of the laws of other States and Territories relating to the same subject.

"Whereas, the working of the general property tax depends upon the efficiency and thoroughness of its administration, which in most states is confided to officials locally elected or appointed; and

"Whereas, the general property tax as thus administered is severely criticised by students of the subject as unjust and unequal between taxpayers in the same district;

"Resolved, that a committee of three members be appointed by the executive committee of the International Tax Association to investigate whether the failure of the general property tax is due to inherent defects in the system itself, or to weakness in its administration, and to report to the next annual conference its conclusions upon this subject; including in the investigation, if deemed necessary, the further question of the advisability of substituting an income tax in whole or in part for the personal property tax.

"Whereas, the taxation of the business of insurance is a problem different from that presented by the taxation of other corporations;

"Resolved, that the laws of the several states relating to the taxation of insurance companies should be uniform so far as permissible by state constitutions, and that all retaliatory legislation be abandoned as contrary to interstate comity, and that this conference recommends that the executive committee of the International Tax Association appoint a committee of three to investigate the question of insurance taxation and report to the next annual conference."

The adoption of the resolutions completed the work of the conference, and it adjourned without day.

MILWAUKEE CONFERENCE

At the fourth annual tax conference, held at Milwaukee, Wisconsin, August 30 to September 2, 1910, thirty-five states, two provinces, and sixteen universities and colleges were represented. Hon. J. O. Davidson, Governor of Wisconsin, was the permanent chairman, and among those present were the governors of Virginia and Mississippi and the Lieutenant Governors of Rhode Island and Virginia.

The Milwaukee conference carried still further the commendable tendency shown at Louisville. There were but eleven formal papers, and not only was there ample opportunity for the discussion of each of these papers, but of the seven sessions of the conference, one was devoted entirely to the discussion of the reports of the committees appointed at Louisville, a second to the discussion of the resolutions, and a third to an informal consideration, by tax officials, of administrative problems.

Of the formal papers, perhaps the most noteworthy related to the problem of the income tax. In an article entitled "An Income Tax as a Substitute for Personal Property Tax in Wisconsin" Professor T. S. Adams of the Department of Economics, in the University of Wisconsin, an expert who has carried on several investigations on the subject of taxation for the Wisconsin Tax Commission, warmly indorsed the income tax as a practical substitute for the present tax on personal property in his state. His plan proposes to do away with the taxation of personal property in rural localities, except farm animals, and to substitute an income tax for the taxation of personal property in cities and villages. By his plan, the income tax would be levied for local purposes only, and the actual rate would be no higher than the present rate of taxation on property values. He stated that the failure of the present tax on personal property is largely due to excessive and oppressive rates. It is practically impossible to be honest, when honesty almost means confiscation. The average return on first class bonds, for instance, is only five per cent; the average rate of taxation in the towns of Wisconsin is about two and one-half per cent. The honest taxpayer who declares his bonds for the purpose of taxation surrenders one-half his income, while his less conscientious neighbor pays nothing. Professor Adams pointed out that recent experience in Pennsylvania and Maryland indicates that American taxpayers will be honest if the rate of taxation permits, and if everyone is treated alike.

Kent K. Kennan, Esq., of Milwaukee, Wis., discussed the comparative results of income taxes in the various countries. He said that if some recent attempts at draughting income tax laws can be taken as criteria, this country would seem to have made no perceptible advance in its knowledge of the subject during the past fifty years. The crude and antiquated provisions of the civil war income tax law are copied again and again in the apparent belief that nothing better ever was or ever will be invented. In the meantime, nearly all the other civilized nations have been trying to solve the problem of successful taxation of incomes and have made notable advances. There are in foreign countries some seventy distinct systems of income taxation, and if we should include communal and municipal income taxes, the number would be doubled. That these income tax laws are of comparatively recent origin is shown by the fact that the average of the dates when they went into effect in fifty-two countries and states, is the year 1881. Comparing the details of the taxes in the various countries, he said that the methods adopted in Australasia are characterized by high exemptions, abruptly graded rates, combinations with single tax, and differentiation in favor of incomes from personal exertion as against incomes from property and earnings of corporations. In England and many of her colonies there is a tendency to high exemptions and proportional or slightly graduated scales of rates. Upon the European continent, uniformly low exemptions, minutely graduated scales of rates, and elaborate systems of differentiation have been adopted. In the majority of the states, the tax upon each grade of income is a fixed amount, which corresponds with the sum which would be produced by a gradually increasing percentual rate. Sometimes a uniform rate is provided, which is rendered progressive by an ingenious system of diminishing abatements on the amount of income taxes in the lower part of the scale and a series of increasing additions to the higher grades. There are two methods of making exemptions; in some countries, the laws simply provide that incomes below a certain sum shall be exempt, while all above that sum shall be taxed at their full amount. In others, there is an exemption of a certain amount from all incomes. Nearly everywhere, charitable, benevolent, educational, religious and governmental institutions are exempt from the income tax. The highest income tax is in Italy, where seven and one-half per cent is the lowest rate, and the normal rate is twenty per cent. It is interesting to note that the income taxpayers nowhere bear a large proportion to the total population. The average proportion paying income taxes is three and one-half per cent, although in Saxony twenty-six per cent pay such tax, and in Prussia sixteen per cent.

In connection with these two papers on the income tax, Professor C. J. Bullock of Harvard University read an article on the working of the general property tax in Switzerland, in which he reached the conclusion that general conditions in that country are more favorable than in the United States for the successful operation of direct taxation. There is less making of law, and much more enforcement. The business of cantons and communes alike is conducted with reasonable efficiency, great economy and absolute honesty; so that taxpayers know their money will be well expended, and therefore contribute more willingly. State and local taxation is more diversified than in the United States, and the pressure of the property tax is therefore less severe. In taxing real property the Swiss cantons probably avoid such gross inequalities as frequently occur in the United States. Swiss experience shows that with good administration and a moderate rate of taxation personal property can be taxed with reasonable success. It also demonstrates that the most drastic laws and rigorous administration are powerless to reach the great mass of personal property, when the tax exceeds the bounds of reason and moderation.

Problems of railroad taxation were discussed by R. H. Shields of the Michigan Tax Commission and T. A. Polleys, tax commissioner of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha Railway. Mr. Shields described in detail the "Cooley-Adams" method of obtaining a tax valuation for railroads. By this scheme, a complete inventory of all the physical elements of the road is supplemented by a capitalization of the net corporate surplus earnings. The rule for capitalizing the net earnings is as follows: From gross earnings from operation deduct the aggregate operating expenses, to find income from operation; to this add income from corporate investments, giving total income; deduct from this, as an annuity property chargeable to capital, a certain per cent of the appraised value of the physical properties; from this deduct taxes, rents paid for the lease of property operated but not made a part of the property covered by the physical valuation, and permanent improvements properly chargeable to income. The remainder, capitalized at a certain rate of interest, gives the value of the immaterial properties. Mr. Shields said, however, that this ingenious method does not always work out fairly, although in the majority of cases it does.

Mr. Polleys in his paper praised the system of taxation of gross receipts which is a feature of the situation in Maine and a few other States. He stated, however, that in most of the states it is probable that railroads will long continue to be taxed upon the assessed value of their property, rather than upon their earnings. The most practical course for students of the question in these states is to address their efforts toward the betterment of the existing method of valuing the railroad. The three leading elements of valuation, which always demand thorough investigation, are (1) the system value of railroad operating property, (2) its distribution among the states in which the railroads operate, (3) the percentage of full cash value at which the property should be assessed in order to treat the railroads upon the same average basis as other taxable property within the state. Mr. Polleys stated a complex but interesting working formula for estimating the taxable value of a railroad, when its capitalization and earnings are known. This formula, although it has no scientific merit as he admitted, yet in the vast majority of cases will give a result which closely approximates the result reached by the more scientifically exact methods of the "Cooley-Adams" and other theories of appraisal.

The special problems in Ohio, Iowa, West Virginia and Kentucky were discussed by experts from each of these states. Hon. Allen R. Foote, President of the Ohio State Board of Commerce and of the International Tax Association, summarized the causes and effects of high taxes noticeable in his own state, and described the program for tax reform. He mentioned the provisions of the recent act creating a tax commission, and of the act limiting the tax rate which was passed in anticipation of increased valuations from the work of the commission. In regard to the inquisitorial sections of the Ohio "listing law," he said that for sixteen years Ohio made a strenuous effort to reduce the taxation of real property by means of an attempt to enforce the most arbitrary and drastic law modern civilization will permit, to compel the listing of personal property for taxation. Yet at the beginning of the period, 1888, the average tax rate throughout the state upon real property was 18.9 mills, while at the close of the period, 1904, it was 25.2 mills, an increase of 33 1-3 per cent in the sixteen years. He concluded that this experience ought to satisfy any intelligent mind that the tax rate on real and personal property cannot be reduced by such methods.

Iowa's problems were discussed by Prof. John E. Brindley of Iowa State College, who declared that in his state the greatest evil of the present situation is the unequal assessment of railroad property as between counties and townships; and Kentucky's by Hon. W. A. Robinson of the Tax Revision Commission, who stated that the greatest need in his state is for a revision of the state constitution, which now binds Kentucky hand and foot to the system of taxes solely on values at the same rate for all classes of property, although hardly second in importance is the need of a permanent tax commission of powers similar to those of our Board of State Assessors in Maine.

Hon. T. C. Townsend, State Tax Commissioner of West Virginia, whose summary of tax reforms in his state was one of the features of the Louisville conference, continued the same subject with one of the most significant papers presented at Milwaukee. He supplemented the figures in his earlier paper, by showing that in 1904 the average rate of taxation for all purposes was 21.5 mills, while in 1908 it was 8.4 mills. In 1904 the average rate on property outside of towns and cities was 19.9 mills, while in 1909 it was 7.4 mills. In 1904 the average rate in towns and cities was 24.8 mills, but in 1909 it was 10.5 mills. The highest rate paid by any taxpayer in the state in 1909 was 16.9 mills, and the lowest rate 4.6 mills. In summing up, he said that West Virginia has sought to accomplish three results in its system of revenue: A complete separation of the sources of state and local revenue, a more equitable distribution of tax burdens, and economy in the expenditure of money raised by taxation. All these ends are being measurably attained, and Mr. Townsend ventured to assert that the record of low taxes cannot be excelled anywhere else in the United States. The state and its subdivisions are collecting more money for every purpose than ever before, but the tax burdens have been so much more equally distributed that nine-tenths of the taxpayers contribute less than they did before the laws and the administration were reformed.

Two other papers were also presented to the conference: Some Judicial Opinions against Double Taxation, by Courtenay Crocker, Esq., of Boston, Mass.; Tax Legislation in 1910, by Clement F. Robinson of Portland, Maine.

The session of the conference devoted to the reports of the committees appointed at Louisville was one of the most interesting of the meetings. The report of the committee on the Causes of Failure of the General Property Tax was read by Judge Oscar Leser of the Appeal Tax Court of Baltimore, the chairman. The report considered the subject under three heads: the results of attempts at stringent administration; the opinions of commissions on the possible success of more strict administration; the defects in the theory on which the general property tax is based, concluding "that the failure of the general property tax is due to the inherent defects of the system." On this last point the report reads in part as follows:

"There are two reasons why the general property tax has failed in operation. First, because under modern conditions it cannot be enforced effectively. Secondly, because of a more or less conscious recognition of the fact that strict enforcement would result in a still greater injustice than now prevails.

"The practical difficulties in the way of enforcing the general property tax are well known. . . . It is unnecessary to do more now than to outline them briefly. Under modern conditions, much property that is valuable to its individual owner (whatever its economic status) is in a form that permits of easy evasion. The paper evidences of ownership of property which the general property tax system seeks to reach in the hands of the owner, can readily be concealed, or there can be a colorable transfer of title. . . . Then there is the ever-present feeling which exerts a conscious or unconscious influence with the average administrator, that he drives away productive capital by the strict enforcement of laws which hinder the business interests of his community in competition with those in localities where greater 'leniency' is shown.

"Public opinion almost invariably recognizes the unfairness of taxing all property by the same rule and at the same rate, whenever a strict enforcement of the law is attempted. The abstract demands for the taxation of all property alike then gives place to concrete indignation over the actual results. It is always some unknown "they" who ought to be made to pay on everything "they" own. But the property which the assessor does find, often is, in the opinion of its owners, either greatly overvalued, or has been 'singled out' or is otherwise quite improperly on the rolls. This attitude of the average property owner, is an unconscious resentment at the unfairness of the general property tax theory. The attempt to tax all property at a uniform standard of valuation and at the same rate, regardless of its special characteristics, earning power or the benefits derived from the expenditures of government, violates the primary rules of just taxation and offends the natural sense of justice.

"The two theories of taxation most widely accepted by economists are: One, that each individual should be taxed in proportion to his ability to pay; the other, that taxes should be levied in proportion to benefits or privileges received from government. . . . The general property tax conforms to neither. It establishes an arbitrary measure for taxation that bears no relation either to ability to pay or to benefits received. . . .

"To sum up, your committee finds:

"That the general property tax system has broken down;

"That it has not been more successful under strict administration than where the administration is lax;

"That in the states where its administration has been most stringent, the tendency of public opinion and legislation is not towards still more stringent administration, but towards a modification of the system;

"That the states which have modified or abandoned the general property tax show no intention of returning to it;

"That in the states where the general property tax is required by constitutional provisions, there is a growing demand for the repeal of such provisions.

"We conclude, therefore, that the failure of the general property tax is due to the inherent defects of the theory;

"That even measurably fair and effective administration is unattainable; and that all attempts to strengthen such administration serve simply to accentuate and to prolong the inequalities and unjust operation of the system."

The report of the committee on Uniform Taxation of Real Estate, read by Hon. T. C. Townsend of West Virginia, the chairman, was accompanied by maps, tables and statistics. The report recommended that there should be embodied in the laws of each state a provision requiring tax maps for each assessment district or a provision giving powers to the tax commission to require tax maps for each assessment district. The committee classified land into urban and rural land. Rural land comprises eight varieties; cultivated land, including meadows; arable land, including all land capable of being plowed; orchard land; timber land; mineral land; quarry land; oil and gas land; and waste land. Urban land comprises city and town lots, and undeveloped acreage not included in city and town lots. In assessing rural land, the assessor should ascertain the area in acres of each separately assessed parcel; the acres of each of the eight classes of rural land within the parcels; the minimum and maximum value of an acre of each of the eight classes within his district; the value of the amount of each of the eight classes contained in each separately assessed parcel; the total value of the amounts of all classes of rural land contained in each parcel; the total value including buildings and improvements of each farm or separate parcel; the name of the reputed owner of each separate parcel. The assessor in towns and cities should ascertain the value of each lot as if wholly unimproved; if undeveloped acreage, in addition to the value of the whole parcel, the value per acre of the parcel and the number of acres in it; the value of each lot including buildings and improvements, and the value of each parcel of undeveloped acreage including these same items. All the foregoing facts should be entered on a "field book," but the assessment book should merely contain a brief description of each parcel and its assessed value. In conclusion, the committee offered resolutions in accordance with its recommendations.

The report of the committee on the Inheritance Tax Law was presented by the chairman, Hon. W. H. Corbin, Tax Commissioner of Connecticut. The chief feature of the report was the outline of a Model Inheritance Tax Law. This law first defines the words "estates," "property," "tangible property," "intangible property," "transfer," and "taxable transfer." These definitions, if adopted in our state, would change but little the present law as it is interpreted. The model law then provides for the exemption of books, works of art, and similar articles of personal property bequeathed to institutions, and of all bequests to charitable, religious, and educational institutions. The suggested rates of taxation are as follows: One per cent on amounts exceeding $2,500 and including $25,000, two per cent on amounts between $25,000 and $250,000, three per cent on sums between $250,000 and $1,000,000, and four per cent on larger sums, when the inheritor is a blood relative, and two per cent on sums between $500 and $10,000, three per cent on sums between $10,000 and $25,000, five per cent on sums between $25,000 and $100,000, ten per cent on sums between $100,000 and $1,000,000, and fifteen per cent on larger sums, in all other cases. These rates are based on the New York act, and are suggested as a maximum. It will be noticed that the rates differ from the rates in the Maine act chiefly in that the rate differs on the various portions of an individual's inheritance, instead of being at a single rate on his entire legacy. The Maine act makes a distinction between lineal relatives, collateral relatives near in degree, and strangers to the blood.

The model act suggested by the committee has no reciprocal clause to prevent double taxation, such as is a feature of the present Maine act, for the universal adoption of the act would obviate the need of such a clause. Tangible property located within a given jurisdiction would be subject to the inheritance tax where it is located, and all intangible property would be taxable only in the home state of the decedent, regardless of the actual location of the evidences of the ownership. In this way all unseemly scrambles to pile up the inheritances taxes on an estate with property located in different jurisdictions would be easily avoided.

The report of the committee on Insurance Taxation was presented by the Chairman, Hon. Lawson Purdy of New York. The committee advocated that life insurance be classified separately for taxation, because of its peculiar relation to other business, and subjected to a tax of not more than one per cent on domestic premium receipts, to a license fee uniform in each state, and to real estate taxation like other owners. The discussion of the report brought out that the recommendations of the committee would hardly meet with universal legislative favor.

The session of the conference set apart for a "round table" discussion of administrative problems by tax officials was generally regarded to be one of the most valuable meetings of the week. From its nature, however, it is difficult to present an adequate report of the course of the discussion. Among the subjects considered were state supervision of local assessments, the stating of the actual consideration in deeds of real estate and the assessment of bank stock. Upon the first subject, Mr. Pottle of the delegation from Maine expressed an apprehension that such state supervision as was advocated by some of those present would be an invasion of home rule which would be resisted by New England communities. Judge Oscar Leser of Baltimore advocated the appointment of all assessors by an authority far removed from the influence of the voting population; such a plan is proving eminently satisfactory in his state. Hon. W. S. Glass of the Kansas Tax Commission argued in favor of large powers for state tax commissions, on the ground that it is impossible for various assessors throughout the state to arrive at equivalent valuations of the same property. Hon. Samuel Lord of the Minnesota Tax Commission said that his commission has the power to order a reassessment, and last year reassessments in two townships resulted in an increase of assessed values of from seventy to eighty per cent. Hon. Lawson Purdy of the New York City Assessment Board urged that state tax commissions should be given power to appoint assessors throughout the state, under a civil service examination, and further power to remove assessors from cause, and to promote them from district to district. It will be seen that the drift of feeling on the part of those who spoke was for centralized tax administration, but it is notable that only one of he speakers was from New England, where the town is highly organized as a unit of government.

The desirability of a requirement that deeds of real estate shall state the actual consideration was urged by Judge Leser of Baltimore, who said that in this way the records in the registries of deeds would become of great assistance to the tax assessors. Hon. Allen R. Foote of Ohio pointed out that Texas and other Western states have such a law. Hon. Lawson Purdy of New York reported that he prepared a law of this kind and had it submitted to the legislature, but it failed of adoption because of the opposition of real estate speculators. Hon. George Curtis, Jr., of the Wisconsin Tax Commission described the experience of Wisconsin with such a law.

Whether bank stock should be assessed on market value, or par value was a subject which brought out differences of opinion, but no remarks were made which are worthy of note.

The resolutions adopted by the conference at its final session are as follows:

"Whereas, a committee was appointed under a resolution adopted at the Louisville conference to inquire into the causes of the failure of the general property tax,

"Resolved, that the conference endorses the conclusions of the said committee and finds that the general property tax, under the higher rates of taxation caused by the increase of public expenditures in the United States, has broken down in so far as it applies to personal property; and

"Resolved, that this conference finds, that the taxation of personal property has not been more successful under strict administration than under lax; that states which have modified or abandoned the general property tax show no intention of returning to it; and that in states where the general property tax is required by consitutional provisions, there is a growing demand for the repeal of such provisions; and

"Resolved, that the failure of the general property tax, in its application to personal property, is due to the inherent defects of its theory; that even reasonably fair and effective administration is unattainable; and that attempts to strengthen such administration simply accentuate the inequalities and unjust operation of the system.

"Resolved, that this conference recommend to the International Tax Association that the Association appoint a committee to investigate the methods of administering laws relating to the taxation of property in the several states and provinces, and prepare a report for the information of future conferences.

"Resolved, that this conference recommend to the International Tax Association that the Association appoint a committee to investigate the subject of a practicable substitute or substitutes for the present tax on personal property.

"Whereas, this conference is of the opinion that the adoption by the several states of the Union, of an inheritance tax law framed along the lines of that submitted by the special committee of the association would provide a fair return to the state treasuries, avoid double taxation, and promote interstate comity,

"Resolved, that the secretary of the International Tax Association be requested to forward to the proper officials of the several states of the Union a copy of the proposed law together with the text of this resolution, with a request to submit the same to the proper committee of the legislature at its next session.

"Resolved, that this conference request the International Tax Association to continue the committee on Uniform Classification of Real Estate and to request said committee to report to the next conference such rules, tables, and general instructions for the assessment of real estate as it may recommend.

"Whereas, a tax measured by domestic premium receipts of companies engaged in the business of insuring lives in the several states is easily and accurately calculated and accords with the amount of business transacted with the policyholders in the several states; therefore, be it

"Resolved, that it is the sense of the conference that a uniform method of taxing the domestic premium receipts of all companies, foreign and domestic, engaged in the business of insuring lives should be adopted in the several states of the Union.

"Resolved, that the conference make no recommendation as to the amount of the rate."

The adoption of the resolutions completed the work of the conference. The time and place for holding the next conference is left with the executive committee of the International Tax Association. It is understood that the conference will take place in October, 1911, at Baltimore, Detroit, or Boston. To this conference are to report not only the committees contemplated by the resolutions quoted above, but also a committee on the taxation of banks and financial institutions, a committee on the taxation of mercantile and manufacturing corporations, a committee on the publication of an official journal of the International Tax Association, and a committee to co-operate with the United States Census Bureau in the preparation of its report upon wealth, debt and taxation. The committees last mentioned were provided for by the International Tax Association, which, according to its custom, held its annual meeting on the day succeeding the adjournment of the tax conference.

In conclusion, the delegates from Maine wish to express their conviction of the value of these conferences, and respectfully to urge that the State of Maine shall in the future continue to be represented each year by duly accredited delegates, appointed by the Governor by authority of appropriate resolve of the Legislature. The conferences bring together representatives of the legislative and executive departments of the state governments, academic writers and teachers of the subject, and other persons interested in taxation for various reasons, and the ultimate advantage to each state of being represented can with difficulty be over-estimated.

Respectfully submitted,

(Signed) EDWARD W. WHEELER,
CLEMENT F. ROBINSON,
Delegates in attendance at Louisville Conference.
